DAIGNEAULT NAMED HEAD FOOTBALL COACH AT LOYOLA COLLEGE

The Department of Physical Education and Athletics announced today the appointment of Doug Daigneault as the College's Head Football Coach. Daigneault, a former C.F.L. star halfback with Ottawa Rough Riders, was an assistant coach last season under departed coach George Dixon, who resigned June 14 to devote more time to his business interests.

Daigneault was born in Montreal and grew up in Malone, New York, where he won high school letters in football, basketball, track, and swimming. Following matriculation he continued his illustrious playing career in football and basketball at Clarkson University, where he had the unique honor of playing in three major post-season college bowl games, the Sugar Bowl, the Orange Bowl, and Bluebonnet Bowl. Upon graduation, he starred for six seasons in the Canadian Football League with Ottawa Rough Riders, highlighted by a Grey Cup winner in 1968.

Daigneault will continue to serve as Loyola's Head Basketball Coach, a position he has held for the past five years. During this period he has brought Loyola national recognition in basketball, with his squads finishing first four times, winning three league championships, in the process going undefeated in 61 straight conference games.

Assistant coaches Ray Rajchowski, Henson, and Peter Haginold, deep secondary, have been retained. Defensive specialist John Ross, a head coach in the high school ranks for 10 years, has been added to the staff, and another assistant is still to be named. Daigneault himself will handle the ends and flankers.

Warriors training camp for localities will commence on August 27th, with light workouts that day, and the entire team will report on September 1st. Loyola will play in the new Quebec University Athletic Association set-up, with the strongest competition for the league title expected to come from McGill, St. George, and Bishop's. Other members of the league are University of Montreal and Royal Military College.
